

The project

Construction of the brand new Police Training Centre in Borne. The training centre is equipped with the latest technologies.

The assignment

Following a public tender, the construction contract was awarded to Aannemingsbedrijf Droste, based in Hengelo. The firms GTI Utiliteit and electrical engineering firm Moekotte were responsible for the technical installations. The total costs for the construction and design amounted to approximately EUR 8 million.

The result

Moekotte was able to deploy its extensive expertise in this project. The works were all carried out to the complete satisfaction of both the customer and contractor.
